Definition of a relationship for benefit purposes

Whether people are single or a couple affects eligibility for certain income assistance and the rate at which we can pay that assistance.

When we determine your entitlement to income assistance, we will consider you to be in a relationship if you are married, in a civil union, or in a de facto relationship, and have a degree of companionship.

By degree of companionship, we mean two people (of the same or opposite sex):
- are committed to each other emotionally for the foreseeable future and
- are financially interdependent on each other.

To give you a better idea of what we mean by this, think about whether:
- you live together at the same address most of the time
- you live separately but stay overnight at each other’s place a few nights a week
- you share responsibilities, for example bringing up children (if any)
- you socialise and holiday together
- you share money, bank accounts or credit cards
- you share household bills
- you have a sexual relationship
- people think of you as a couple
- you give each other emotional support and companionship
- your partner would be willing to financially support you if you couldn’t support yourself.

Do you understand our definition of a relationship?

Have your circumstances changed?

Changes to your circumstances can include if you:
- have a change in work situation (such as starting part-time, casual or full-time work, whether paid or unpaid)
- become self-employed/start to run a business
- have changes to my/our income or financial circumstances
- intend to travel overseas
- start/finish part-time or full-time study
- have changes to personal details (such as name, address or bank account number)
- have any other change that may affect my/our benefit entitlement or rate.

Tell us about your change of circumstances

Would you like to opt out of money management?

If you are transferring to a Work and Income benefit, and no longer have Youth Activity obligations, money management will stop.

Tell us about your change of circumstances

Do you want your redirections to continue?

Your provider does not need to help you manage your money any longer. However, if you want your redirections to continue, you need to have a good reason.
